“The Gift”

I use birds to symbolise blessings and roses new beginnings. It's a blessing for a new beginning!

“Lion”

My father was a sculptor and kept some of his work at home. When I was a kid I was particularly fond of one of his works that he hung in the living room. It was a plaster of Paris replica of a fountain head in the shape of a lion's head. Because it was hollow on the inside as well as having pierced eyes, I would often take it off the wall and place on my face like a mask. I was thinking of him when I did this piece. The birds represent blessings I wish onto everyone that looks at this painting.
